Allerase was formulated to provide quick and natural respiratory support for symptoms associated with allergies. It contains the highest amount of Thera-Blend™ Amylase (enzymes that break down carbohydrates and balance histamine levels) and is designed to be taken on an empty stomach.*

Each of us inhales at least 20 billion particles everyday, making exposure to potential allergens inevitable. For many, substances such as pollen, cigarette smoke, mold and pet dander can trigger an immune response which creates histamine. Histamine production is the body's reaction to a perceived pathogen. It triggers the set of responses such as watery, itchy eyes, runny nose, coughing or skin irritation. While we experience these as negative side effects, they are actually the effects of the immune system to trap and expel the irritant and neutralize potential pathogens.

Over 50 million Americans suffer from allergies. Many rely on over the counter drugs that only mask the symptoms by drying up the mucus associated with an allergic response. Although this may provide momentary relief, the side effects may include drowsiness and inability to focus. Allerase by Enzymedica offers a natural alternative to medications. Enzymes have proven to be among the safest, fastest, and most effective ways to counter the allergic response.

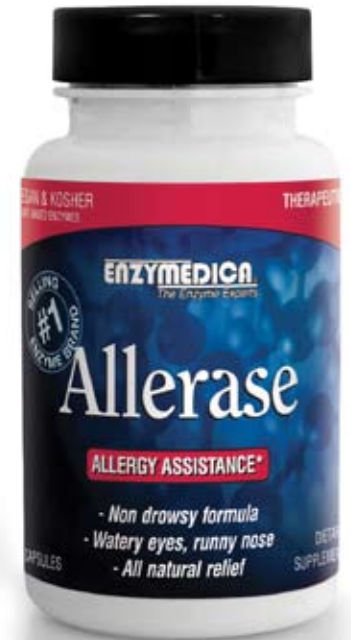

The enzyme amylase is well known for being able to break down carbohydrates, but it has another important function. Amylase also stabilizes the cells that release histamine when there is an allergic response; so it has a balancing effect for those who suffer from allergies. Mucolase is a protein digesting enzyme that also targets and breaks down excess mucus. The combination of amylase Thera-blend and mucolase enzymes address the core issues of overproduction of histamine in addition to giving fast relief of excess mucus often associated with allergies. Allerase taken on an empty stomach can help to naturally balance histamine levels and ease allergic symptoms.
